I was aware of a couple of the authors Capt. Lou and Steve Rosenbaum working on their contributions and to see their stories unfold in the book was incredible. It is said that success leaves clues. Here is a book full of clues. Highly recommended. 0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Can't think of One! By Angela T Byrne I brought this book solely because of One Marketer who I happen to appreciate and was not disappointed in reading about his antics. Then I slowly discovered other gifted talented people as I reread on a second time round due to the fact, I looked up the Joel Comm creator of this co authored book. So glad I did as through Facebook a few of these other marketers have popped through my screen with some valuable advice on certain platforms, I've been researching. Time changes a person, and a part of me understands why perhaps the links were instilled into this ebook. However links get in the way of my reading, but I notice it is actually the norm when marketers involve themselves in written form. So, in finishing off this review, I still say it would of come through better reading if Joel Comm had a bit of intro as to why these were the chosen for his Vol 2 version of, so what do you do? There are some powerful people within the pages, dig wide and take up the invitation of a new talent that is sure to inspire you.... 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Like many others By Ina R. Ames Like many others, I'm a little weary of inspirational books. I was delightfully surprised in reading this book (in one sitting, cover to cover). The authors' stories are autobiographical in general but aimed at the goal of inspiring the reader to have confidence and to take the steps necessary to succeed. What was particularly useful from these stories, however, was the different perspectives and different teachings presented. I hadn't expected to learn useful information. I did. I highly recommend this book which teaches lessons learned with different perspectives and world views.

Every person has been created by God with a set of unique passions, talents, skills, abilities, personality and presence which makes them completely unique from anyone who has ever, or will ever, live. When you are doing what you were made to do, you have the opportunity to positively impact the people and world around you. Unlike many books which highlight the "gurus", "So What Do You Do? Discovering the Genius Next Door with One Simple Question" puts the spotlight on the unsung heroes; the everyday person; your neighbor; each of which has a special expertise which is demonstrated in their vocation or hobby. From exceptional parenting and exciting adventure travel to growing a thriving business and dealing with issues of personal growth, "So What Do YOU Do?" will take you to new places and inspire you to share your genius with the world.

From the Back Cover You'll be enlightened and encouraged as you recognize that you are surrounded by genius. And as you appreciate this genius, you may tap into the genius within yourself just waiting to be set loose! It was shortly after I began compiling inspirational stories for the first edition of So, What Do You Do? that a name was shared with me by several associates. The name was David Perdew. Those who told me I needed to meet David were incredulous that I had not heard of David, nor his exceptional business-building community, NAMS. I soon discovered that NAMS was an acronym for Novice-to-Advanced Marketing System. After meeting David myself, I was incredulous with myself that I had not met him previously and that I was just becoming acquainted with the work being accomplished through his community. I knew I had to discover more about NAMS for myself. It was early February 2014 that I was invited to speak at NAMS' annual conference and finally had the opportunity to meet David Perdew, his charming wife Charlsa, and members of the NAMS community. What I discovered left me inspired and with a desire to become part of NAMS. David and his team have succeeded in creating a diverse community of entrepreneurs who are givers in every sense of the word. While each determined to succeed in their respective niches, there's a sense of family that is a rarity in the online business world. If a rising tide does indeed lift all boats, the extraordinary people who are part of the NAMS community are all on the rise. It's with great pride that I am pleased to present you with the second volume of "So, What Do You Do: Discovering the Genius Next Door with One Simple Question", comprised entirely of inspirational and entrepreneurial stories from the NAMS community. Whether you devour the book in one reading or if you savor stories one day at a time, you are sure to connect with the hearts and minds of the people within. With as many unique experiences as there are contributors, I know that these stories will encourage you on your journey, cause you to see the world in different ways and provide you with valuable tips and strategies applicable to your life and business. While there are geniuses all up and down the street where you live (and at least one at your own address!), it's my hope that the NAMS community of geniuses will inspire and equip you to keep moving forward as you seek to bring value to the world around you. Do good stuff!
