By Ma. Carmen L. Testa
This book is a good starting point for anyone who wants to make the most of their mentoring opportunities. The process, approach, and exercises are practical and can help a mentee prepare herself for mentoring. What I like about it is that it puts the initiative squarely on the shoulders of the mentee and dispels the notion that one needs to passively wait for a mentor to start the relationship. The mentor-mentee relationship is co-created. It gives helpful tips on how to define one's SMART goals, considerations on how to choose one's mentor, how to handle/end a mentoring relationship that's not working, and much more. If you're getting ready to be mentored, using this book will definitely make your mentoring more productive and successful.
