Entrepreneurship made easy By Nils Veske Creel Price has done the impossible, giving readers a great overview of entrepreneurship yet more importantly providing a 'how to' for entrepreneurs who want to succeed at the game of business. This book is clear, to the point and doesn't mess around. It gives you simple actions to focus on, and helps to steer you clear of the entrepreneur traps that so many can fall into. After reading it and doing more research I wasn't surprised to find out that Creel was recruited by none other than Sir Richard Branson to run his 'decisionship' approach to entrepreneurship at Branson's entrepreneurship school in South Africa. If that isn't enough of a reason to read it, I'm not sure you should be in business. A must read book. Nils Veske Innovation Architect[...]
